FOREWORD

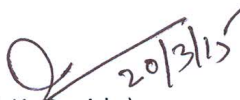

I am glad that the District Statistical Hand Book, 2011 of Nayagarh district the 9th in its series is published. It is a compendium of data and information of varied sectors, subjects and fields with the authenticated data on achievements in different development sectors. This volume has its unique characteristic of portrayal of the figures on demographic picture, employment position, literacy rate live stock and their derived indices of this district along with those of other districts of the state to give insight to the users for a comparative study and to look to the position of the district in various fields in comparison to others. The Hand Book also reflects the production of major and minor food crops, availability of irrigation, productivity, consumption of fertilizers, credit provided to the farmers and others through financial institutions, Wholesale and retail prices of some food grains average daily wage of labourers, creation of infrastructure, occurrences of mortality, mobility and different communicable diseases. The crime statistics will put the respective District heads on alert to bring the graph line down wards. The data on climatic condition will be of immense help to the agriculturists to plan their activities and the disaster managers to stand attuned to any unforeseeable mishaps. I hope, this compendium will serve the purpose of all, the Government officials, academics, researchers and almost all as an authenticated reference book of information and data. I extend my compliments to the staff and officers who have put in their labour in collecting data from various sources for bringing out this edition of the Hand Book which is made public.
