PREFACE

The present issue of the Statistical Hand-Book of Haryana is the fourth in the series. It presents the factual account of social and economic trends in the State in a concise form on the basis of current available data. With a view to making the Hand-Book more useful, a few tables containing State-wise statistical data on crucial indicators have been incorporated. It also contains district-wise data on various socio-economic aspects of the State indicating the regional development parameters.

This organisation is grateful to various government departments and corporations for their cooperation in making the statistical data promptly available to the Organisation for inclusion in this publication.

It is hoped that the Hand-Book will prove useful to administrators, planners, scholars and all those who are interested in the economy of Haryana.

V. P. Sharma
