PREFACE

The Department of Education, Ministry of Human Resource Development, takes pride in presenting this unique publication on public expenditure on education. This is the second in the series of research publications brought out as part of DPEP. It is a historic publication presenting the time series data right from the beginning of Indian planning to 1993-94. In order to enhance its value the publication incorporates even the data pertaining to 1994-95 to the extent available. The idea is to present authentic primary data which can be analysed by the research and policy community.

The publication is a legacy to Indian education by Shri S.C. Sahai who was associated with the Planning Division from 1984 till his retirement in 1994. He was a veritable walking encyclopedia on Education statistics. He gracefully accepted my request to put together the invaluable data of which he was the repository. His compilation was upto the period 1992-93. His successor in office, Shri H. S. Nehria of Indian Statistical Service, updated the data and Shrimati Sibani Swain of Indian Economic Service put together the brief analysis and selected data for graphs. I am thankful to the three of them.

I would like to place on record the contribution made by Shri A. Venu Gopal and Shri. M. Subba Rao of National Informatics Centre by developing the software for validation of data. I also express my sincere thanks to the project staff (Shrimati S. Y. Gajwe, Shri P. C. Jain and Shri V. S. Nagar) of Planning and Monitoring Division and Shri Krishan Kumar of CMIS Unit of the Department of Education.

There are three major sources of data on expenditure on education: (i) household surveys conducted by NSS and NCAER, (ii) budgetary data and (iii) financial data collected from educational institutions. This compendium offers the time series data collected from budget documents. A companion volume on financial data from educational institutions is being compiled. We hope that these publications will go a long way in filling data gaps of Indian public finance.

BUDGETARY RESOURCES FOR EDUCATION

Education is a critical input in human resource development and is essential for the economic growth of the country. Since 1951-52, when planning commenced, there has been a tremendous expansion in the education system. Total number of educational institutions has increased from 0.84 million at present and corresponding enrolment for elementary and secondary education increased from 22.8 million to 164.6 million. To develop and maintain such a large education system, the budgeted expenditure on education has also increased from Rs. 644.6 million in 1951-52 to Rs. 239089.4 million in 1993-94 at current prices. Budgetary resources are the predominant source of funding education in India. It would be a truism to say that Indian education is essentially funded by government.

The private sources of financing education include fees, donations and endowments etc. Funds provided by universities and local bodies are mostly grants and transfers from the Central and State Governments and thus come under public funding.

* School education only.

The share of public funding in education sector has increased over the last 40 years from a level of 68.0 percent in 1951-52 to 89.8 percent in 1989-90 (Table 1). The main reason for the sharp increase can be attributed to provision of free education for all children upto class VIII, and for the girls upto class XII all over the country. In some states, education is free for girls at higher education level also. Apart from free education, the fee structure at secondary and higher education levels has not changed during the last three decades, notwithstanding sharp increases in the educational expenditure due to various pay revisions and payment of numerous installments of dearness allowances to teachers and non-teaching staff. All this additionality has been met from the government funds, increasing the share of government expenditure

SCOPE OF THE PUBLICATION

This publication presents time series data on budgeted expenditure of Central and State Governments on education and training incurred by the Department of Education as well as other Departments. While Education Department provides the bulk of public expenditure other Departments too fund education e.g. Ashram Schools and schools in tribal areas, schools maintained by defence establishments, medical colleges, agricultural colleges/universities, etc. Details like plan and non-plan break-up of expenditure on education and classification of the expenditure under revenue and capital head have been indicated state-wise as well as sub-sector wise. Other Departments' expenditure on education is categorised under three heads like formal education, training and informal education. The formal education covers colleges, universities and professional colleges under other Departments/Ministries, while training includes in-service training for police, government officers, defence personnel, apprentices etc. Informal education is that vast area of education which does not fall under these two categories, like Anganwadis and Balwadis, correctional homes and so on. This document also provides a statement on budgeted expenditure on education as a percentage of state Domestic product (SDP) and state revenue budget.

SOURCES OF DATA

The data on public expenditure on education from 1951-52 to 1993-94 has been taken from two sources. For the period 1968-69 to 1993-94, the annual publications of the Ministry of Human Resource Development entitled "Analysis of Budgeted Expenditure on Education" provided the data.

For the earlier period, 1951-52 to 1967-68, information has been taken from the annual publications of the Comptroller and Auditor General (C&AG) of India titled "Combined Finance and Revenue Account" which furnish the audited expenditure figures. Data on state Net Domestic product at current prices for the period 1960-61 to 1979-80 have been taken from the various issues of "Estimates of State Domestic Product" published by the Central Statistical Organisation (CSO), Department of Statistics.

For the years 1980-81 to 1992-93 the estimates were furnished by the CSO. The estimates of Gross National Product (GNP) at factor cost and current prices from 1951-52 to 1990-91 has been taken from the Economic Survey 1992-93 of the Ministry of Finance. For the year 1991-92 the quick estimate of GNP released by the CSO has been utilised.

Data for various princely states and other regions existing before the reorganisation of states has been shown against the states/union territory with which they have been amalgamated after reorganisation.

LIMITATIONS OF DATA

The transfer of scheme/programmes from one sub sector of education to the other, due to changes in administrative set up or due to any other reason, results in intrasectoral transfer of funds alongwith the scheme. Such transfer of funds affects the pattern of sectoral expenditure and its comparability from one year to another.

The assistance given by the Central Government to states under centrally sponsored schemes needs to be identified and deducted from the expenditure of the state governments to avoid double counting of expenditure first as expenditure of the central government and then as expenditure of the state government.

Expenditure on adult education, which was earlier called social education, is combined with special education till 1973-74. Separate figures for adult education are available from 1974-75 onwards.

The C&AG publications report only the combined expenditure and break up of expenditure under plan and non-plan heads of account is not available. Hence only combined expenditure has been given from 1951-52 to 1967-68.

Details of expenditure under various sub-sectors of education are available for expenditure incurred by the Education Departments only. Subsector-wise breakup of expenditure on formal education incurred by other departments is not available.

The breakup of statewise expenditure on education by other departments under formal education, informal education and training is available only from 1977-78 onwards. The details of expenditure by other departments on special types of education like medical education, agricultural education, forestry etc., are not available.

In many cases actual expenditure figure for an item was not available. In such cases Revised Estimates(RE) or Budget Estimates(BE) figure of the same year was substituted. If RE/BE figures for the same year were also not available then previous year's actual expenditure figures are comparable.

GROWTH OF EXPENDITURE ON EDUCATION BY EDUCATION DEPARTMENTS AND SHARE OF CENTRAL AND STATE GOVERNMENTS.

Statement I in the Annexure gives centre and statewise/yearwise/subsectorwise expenditure on education by education departments with plan and non-plan breakup. The expenditure has increased from Rs. 644.6 million in 1951-52 to Rs. 239089.4 million in 1993-94 or 371 times at current prices. Table 2 indicates the public expenditure incurred on education by both Central and State Governments for selected years.

States finance more than 90 percent of the public expenditure on education. While Central Government support for education is small relative to that of states, which cover the bulk of recurring cost under non-plan head, centre provides substantial funding of plan outlay (more than 25%). The centre is often the only source of support for new programmes. Plan funding from centre has increased phenomenally after adoption of National Policy on Education (NPE) 1986, which gave a meaningful definition to the concurrency of education enshrined in the Constitution, through its 42 Amendment. A number of Centrally Sponsored Schemes were launched to promote universalisation of secondary education and science education. Central share in the plan outlay for education had reached the level of 50 percent in 1987-88 which has been maintained at a level of around 35 percent thereafter. (Table 3).

Figures in brackets are Percentage share

At constant prices public expenditure on education has increased at an annual compound rate of 8.3 per cent over the last four decades (Table 4). The compound rate in the 1980s has been higher than that in the 1970s and 1960s. Further, the rate of growth of central expenditure is substantially higher than that of states during the 1980s.

PERCENTAGE EXPENDITURE ON VARIOUS SUBSECTORS
OF EDUCATION INCURRED BY EDUCATION DEPARTMENTS.

Statement II in the Annexure gives expenditure on various subsectors of education as percentage of the total expenditure of education departments, yearwise for the central and state governments, statewise as well as combined. It may be seen that the percentage allocation of funds for various subsectors (Table 5) are significantly different between the central and state governments which means that the priorities accorded to various subsectors by the centre and states are different.

Priorities differ among states as well which is revealed by differing percentage allocations for different subsectors. The share of elementary and secondary education gradually increased in the central budget specially after the National Policy on Education, 1986.

Percentage expenditure for elementary education in the central budget, which was insignificant in the seventies, increased from 3.99% in 1980-81 to 17.75% in 1987-88, when the funds for implementing NPE, 1986 were provided in the regular budget for the first time. In 1993-94 (BE) the share has recorded 20.76 per cent, the highest so far.

Central financial support for universalisation of elementary education satisfies, a long felt need. As early as 1986, the Indian Education commission had articulated the need for priority of education by stating "While every branch of education can justly claim the fostering care of the State, it is desirable in the present circumstances of the country, to declare the elementary education of masses, its provision, extension and improvement to be that part of the educational system to which the strenuous efforts of the state should now be directed in a still larger measure than heretofore".

However, so long as this policy postulate was not backed by central funding the policy remained an empty rhetoric. The priority assigned to basic education is reflected by the steep step up of public expenditure on elementary education in the VIII Five Year Plan(1992-97) by over 313% in comparison with the plan expenditure during VII Plan.

The share of elementary education in the total plan expenditure has also increased substantially during the VIII Five Year Plan.

The central government provides direct support to secondary education by opening Navodaya Vidyalayas in the 80's and strengthening the network of Kendriya Vidyalayas all over the country.

The proportion of expenditure on secondary education sector in the central budget has increased from 9.82% in 1981-82 to 23.77% in 1991-92 and 26.19% 1993-1994. Increasing priority to elementary and secondary education has brought down the relative share of higher and technical education in central budget over all these years.

So far as State Government are concerned, the priority given to different sub-sectors of education in terms of budgetary allocation does not indicate much variation over the years. States/Uts, on the other hand, have given priority to elementary, secondary and higher education in that order.

PERCENTAGE ALLOCATION AND ACHIEVEMENT LEVELS.

Data for states and union territories shows that in seventies and eighties the share of elementary education was between 45% and 50%, followed by 30% to 35% for secondary education and around 10% for higher education. Percentage allocation does not necessarily reflect the achievement level. Total financial allocation combined with socio-economic and political factor have a definite impact on development.

Public expenditure is, no doubt, a critical factor but not the sole determinant of development of an ever expanding education system. Cost effectiveness and efficiency in the delivery of services under various educational programmes which are mostly affected by the socio-economic and political situations of the region, can have long-standing impact on the most important determinant of development, i.e., human capital formation.

Effectiveness of delivery of services in the social sector also needs a high degree of integration and convergence in the planning and programme implementation of related social sectors. Services like literacy, elementary education, primary health care, nutrition, mother and child care, family welfare and rural development have a strong inter-face among themselves and can only be strengthened through an appropriate integrated approach which will not only optimize public expenditure in regard to these services but also reinforce the effective delivery system.

PUBLIC EXPENDITURE ON EDUCATION DURING FIVE YEAR PLANS.

An intra sectoral analysis of Plan expenditure on education sharply brings into focus three distinct period since planning began in 1951, with the plan holiday (1966-69) and the year 1986-87 as two dividing lines (Table 6 and Chart I).

Sectorwise Expenditure (in Five Year Plans)

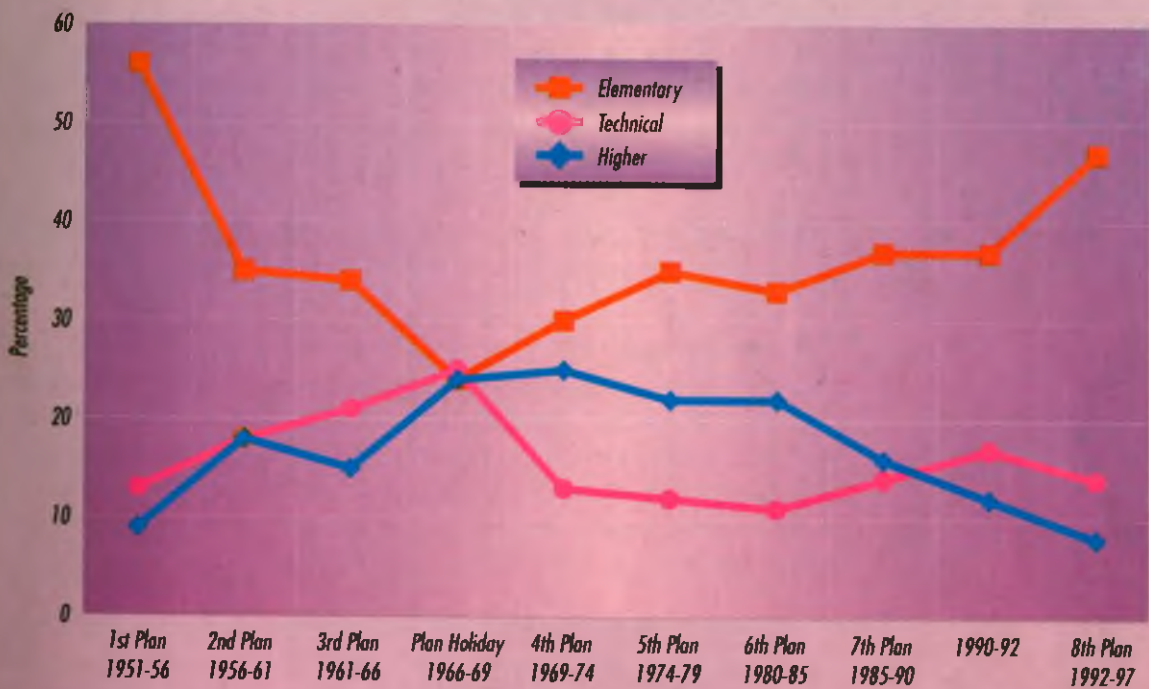

Chart I

In the first phase (First Plan to Plan Holiday) higher and technical education received a higher intra sectoral priority compared to elementary education. Traditionally, universal elementary education was perceived as social consumption while skilled manpower supplied by higher and technical education was considered a critical factor of economic development which obviously contributed to the human capital formation. By the beginning of the IV Plan, i.e., just after the Plan Holiday, with the realisation that the network of technical institutions created was sufficient to meet the anticipated manpower demands, investments in technical education were curtailed. At the same time universal elementary education was recognized as a minimum need programme for which more public resources were diverted for elementary education during the second phase extending from IV Five Year Plan to 1986 i.e. the beginning of the VII Five Year Plan. During the third phase (1987 onwards) with the introduction of NPE-1986 a sharp rise in the share of elementary education in total plan expenditure of education is being witnessed.

EXPENDITURE OF EDUCATION DEPARTMENTS UNDER CAPITAL ACCOUNT.

Expenditure in capital account including loans and advances as shown under statement III in Annexure covering a period starting from 1974-75 for the States and 1981-82 onwards for the Centre. In view of the existence of a large educational infrastructure in the country the expenditure under capital account seems to be very low. Some of the reasons can be as under:-

- i) According to the accounting procedure the entire grants -in-aid, including grants for capital works, is booked under revenue account and not under capital account.
- ii) Village Panchayats donate land for construction of school buildings and villagers provide voluntary labour and locally available construction material reducing pressure on the capital budget of government.
- iii) In most of the states, schools and colleges are started initially by private individuals/organisations, but are granted aid for meeting the salary component of teachers after a specific period. Thus, Government saves on the cost of land and building.
- iv) Expenditure on construction activity is often shown under the budget heads of other departments.

EXPENDITURE ON EDUCATION AND TRAINING BY OTHER DEPARTMENTS.

Other departments incur expenditure on education under three heads viz. formal education, informal education and training (statement IV). Departments of Medical Health, Agriculture, Forestry and Environment, Welfare, Labour, Tribal Development etc. spend huge amounts on formal education in their respective areas. Over years the contribution of these Ministries/Departments to total education system has ranged between 10 to 15 per cent (Table 7). These expenditures are basically meant for higher and professional education and thus help in creating an army of skilled and professional manpower.

BUDGETARY ALLOCATION FOR EDUCATION IN RELATION TO GNP/SDP.

Statement V gives the share of education departments in the total budget of central and state governments separately together with its percentage to state domestic product (SDP) and GNP. Statement VI provides similar information in respect of expenditure of education departments plus the expenditure on formal education of other departments.

The states on an average are spending around 20% of their total budget on education. In some states this figure is still higher. For instance, in the case of Kerala, the percentage expenditure on education has been well over 30% during the sixties and the seventies. The total expenditure on education by education departments accounts for approximately 11% of the national revenue budget at present (Table 8).

Budgeted expenditure on education as percentage of GDP ranges between 3 and 7 across the states except for Himachal Pradesh and the North Eastern States who have higher percentage of GDP devoted to education. Low GDP and high central plan assistance have been the cause of these high percentage in the case of North Eastern States which are grouped under special category states. Since the year 1951-52, the public expenditure on education has increased steadily from 0.68 percent of GNP to about 3.5 percent in 1992-93 (Table 10).

The Education commission (1964-66), the National Policy on Education-1968, NPE-1986 and also the modified policy of 1992, have all recommended that public expenditure on education should be raised to 6 percent of the national income. While public expenditure is below the articulated aspiration, at a macro-level, India's expenditure on education as a proportion of GNP compares favourably with that of the peer group of Asian developing countries (Table 11), including China (2.3), Indonesia (0.9), Philippines (3.0) & Bangladesh (2.0).

In several states, the proportion of public expenditure on education in relation to state Domestic Product (SDP) has increased substantially. In a good number of states, it has been more than four per cent (Table 12). States also allocate a quarter or a third of the states revenue budget on education.

THE CONCLUDING ANALYSIS

Resource support need not be limited to budgetary support, nor resources to financial resources. The NPE-1986 itself envisages different ways for mobilising financial resources like mobilising donations, increasing fees at the higher level of education, effecting savings through efficient delivery system, and levy of a cess or surcharge on user agencies. These measures would not only reduce the burden on Government resources but also create an environment of responsibility and accountability within the educational system.

The importance of non financial resources for development of education is best demonstrated under Total Literacy Campaign in India. As of now, over 10 million volunteers, most of these being women, are engaged in the Total Literacy Campaigns trying to impart functional literacy to millions of learners. If quantified in terms of opportunity cost at an average minimum wage for unskilled labour, this contribution works out to be Rs. 6180 million which is seven percent of the 8th Plan allocation for adult education. This is a shining example of how human capital can be mobilised in a cost effective way to achieve Education for all.

However, the national resolve of achieving the norm of six percent of GDP as public expenditure on education is still a long cherished goal. The Prime Minister, while addressing the EFA-9 Summit in December 1993, declared the resolve of the Government to achieve this norm during the Ninth Five Year Plan. In the context of liberalisation and economic reforms resulting in emergence of non-governmental investment channels in the economy specially for power, energy and industry, it is expected to realise the target six percent of GDP for public expenditure on education within the specified time.
