1.1 Introduction

Nagaland was inaugurated as the Sixteenth State of the Indian Union on the 1st December 1963.

Physical feature

The State of Nagaland covers an area of 16,579 sq.km and lies between 25⁰6' and 27⁰4' latitude North of Equator and between the longitudinal lines 93⁰20' and 95⁰15' East. The State is bounded by Manipur on the South, Assam on the North and West, Arunachal Pradesh on the North East and also shares a common international boundary with Myanmar on the East. Topographically, the state is mountainous and the altitude varies approximately between 194 metres and 3048 metres above sea level. Many villages stand at 1000 to 2000 metres high. The Naga villages are usually situated on the hill tops and at a higher elevation because of security reasons.

Mount Saramati in Tuensang District is the highest peak in the State, measuring 3,840 metres above sea level. Other important mountains are Mount Japfu and Mount Pauna standing at the height of 3014 and 2841 metres respectively.

The people

The indigenous people of Nagaland, the 'Nagas' are primarily of Mongoloid race. Their lifestyles are closely based on the mongoloid features. There are several theories on the origin and the meaning of the word 'Naga' however, it is yet to be agreed upon to a particular theory.

The entire population in the State of Nagaland consists of several tribes and sub-tribes, having their own distinctive languages and cultures. The major tribes of Nagaland are Angami, Ao, Chakhesang, Chang, Khiamniungan, Konyak, Lotha, Phom, Pochury, Rengma, Sangtam, Sema, Yimchungrü, Zeliang, Kuki and Kachari.

According to the 2011 Census the population of Nagaland is 19,80,602(Provisional). Out of this 71.03% of the population live in rural areas. The density of the population is 119 per sq.km. The state have eleven district namely- Kohima, Mokokchung, Tuensang, Wokha, Zunheboto, Phek, Mon, Dimapur, Peren, Longleng and Kiphire.

Economy of the State

Agricultural activities predominates the state economy. Traditionally, jhum cultivation (dry farming) is the main occupation of the people in the rural areas, since time immemorial. Later on, some tribes in the state learnt to practice terrace cultivation in sloppy hilly areas where canal irrigation is possible from the rain-fed streams atleast during the rainy season. However, such agricultural activities confines to the tribes of Angami, Chakhesang and Zeliang Nagas.

After the attainment of statehood, the State Government encouraged and demonstrated to the farmers how wet cultivation is practiced through the technical knowledge of the V.L.W s (Village Level Workers or Gram Sewaks) trained from outside the State. Now, wet cultivation is widely practiced in the areas along the foothill belts of Wokha, Mokokchung and Mon Districts. In recent days, even mechanized farming is in practice in Dimapur and Peren District.

Now-a-days, Nagas take to Floriculture, Sericulture, Horticulture, Bee-keeping, Handloom & Handicrafts, plantations, cottage and small-scale industries, adopting modern technologies for their livelihood.
