PREFACE

The extension of technical training facilities in the country is a basic element in accelerating the pace of economic development. Technical Training is, in fact, the key to industrialization. Training has to cover supervisory staff and technicians of all levels especially as it is essential in order to enable workers to acquire occupational skill necessary for the performance of any new tasks to be entrusted to them in future. The available capital and machinery can be utilized only to the extent that adequately trained personnel are at hand.

2. The scope of technical training, however, is by no means limited to industries, where it is calculated to bring about substantial increase in productivity. The development of sound communication, irrigation and power, agriculture, co-operation, health and education equally call for adequate and timely supply of properly trained personnel, fully conversant with modern techniques of development.

3. It is in this context that the attempt is made to provide fairly comprehensive and reliable information regarding the nature and extent of training facilities available in the State. Accordingly the fourth edition of the handbook gives the information as till 1960-61. It deals with the entire field of technical and vocational education and training, including engineering, agriculture, veterinary, dairying and medicine. It is trusted that the publication will serve the need of the general public seeking information on the subject of training facilities in Punjab.

SROOP KRISHEN,

Planning Commissioner,
and Secretary to Government, Punjab,
Planning Department.
